2019 Home Efficiency Incentive Program

Application Form

Program Overview

HELPS Home Efficiency Incentive Program is designed to assist the customer with the cost of installation for the most cost effective measures recommended in a home energy audit. Those measures are shown on the energy audit report.

We encourage you to proceed with the installation of those conservation measures that best suit your energy needs and are listed on your HELPS Home Energy Report.

General rule for cost-effective home energy efficiency: Insulate and air-seal first. (Ask the auditor for a list of firms providing air-sealing services).

All new heating systems receiving an incentive must have an Energy Star certification.

Self-installation of insulation is not eligible for rebate.
